

Interaction Management

Instructor Interaction

Online students often reported that interaction with the instructor is critical for their successful learning experiences. They use the following strategies for interaction with the instructor.

1

Contact your professor

- Contact your professor early in the semester
- Use your professors' office hour as needed

2

Pay attention to your professor

- Take the advice (learning strategies/feedback for the assignment) from the professors

3

Understand the criteria your professors use

- When you have a difficulty understanding the expectation of the course/assignment, write an email or make an appointment to talk with the instructor
- Be patient; Be prepared; Be polite

4

Give feedback to professors

- When a professor does something you appreciate, let them know right away
- If there is something that needs to be improved, give your professor a specific example of what you don't like and what you would like
